Congratulations on your recent celebration and may an abundance of happiness always surround you. The following information is to help you choose your pictures and design your personalized digital album and parent albums.

Viewing and Ordering Album Proofs

Once your images are online for viewing we will send an email notifying you. To see them, just go to www.mjsphotostudio.com. At the bottom of the homepage, click on the link that says "View Your Event" which will then ask you to enter your maiden name or married sur name or the name of the person for the event. Click on Go and this will take you to an alphabetical list. Click on your name. This will take you to our online viewing website at www.pictage.com. Here you must complete a one time registration in order to view your photos. Once you have registered as a new user, you can begin to view your images and set up your folders. When you return you can login directly from the Member Sign In. The following steps will help guide you through the process of ordering your albums and prints.

Ordering Your Album

We have found that many clients choose to upgrade their albums in order to accommodate additional images. Typically after viewing your images you realize that you would like to add images to your original order. Every album is custom designed based on the images you have chosen. Depending on your package, your album can include anywhere from 36 up to include a plethora of images. You must have the correct amount of images in your album production form in order for us to create your album and design. As a hint remember, if you are designing your own album keep your images in sequential order. Remember any book you read always has an opening, middle, and an ending. You may choose to start with something as simple as your invitation or a picture of you and/or your spouse. Remember your opening is foreshadowing to the rest of your album. Next, use your dressing shots, if you are using traditional choices of one large image to a page and four small images, use four to a page. This is where you should include images of the bride and her bridesmaids, mom and dad. Your images will then move to the bride arriving at the church. The groom is then introduced to the reader; this can be done with one large image or four small images. The ceremony is next followed by the park group portraits and finally the reception. Keep it in order, the entry, toast, dance, cake, garter, etc. Your final image should be a closing image, one capturing the spirit of the album. For other events the sequential order still holds true, although you will have different stages than a wedding. If you do not know which package you have purchased you can see on your original contract how many images you have in your original purchase. This number is captioned on the first line under albums above your parent album information. Otherwise, please email albumorder@mjsphotostudio.com and we will send you your package information.

 Digital designs sizes vary based on the custom design templates.

 Please allow 2 weeks for design

1. REMEMBER: When ordering for your album, parent albums, and/or prints please take care to choose the images you want by image number.
2. Our professional design team will create the layout from your choices, a design viewing template will be sent to you via electronic mail for you to make any changes and have final approval on the images and design layout before your order goes to print. Parent albums and portraits are not reviewable as they are traditionally one image to a page.

Ordering Your Parent Albums

If your package includes parent albums, then you need to choose your images and write them in the production form as instructed above. Depending on your package, you will choose 10 (ten) or 20 (twenty) images for each parent album. If you do not know which package you have purchased this information is available on your contract, it will say ten or twenty images next to your parent album line; otherwise please email albumorder@mjsphotostudio.com and we will send you your package information. Our parent albums range in size from 4x5 images to 10x10 images, and can be designed as well. You may also order an additional main album for your parents if you so choose. Many of our couples use this as a way to thank their parents for purchasing their wedding photography.

Ordering Your Included Prints

If your package included additional 4x5 or 4x6 prints, then you need to choose those images and order them using the attached production forms. All other larger size prints (5x7, 11x14, 16x20, 20x24) should be ordered on the attached production form. Depending on your package, you may or may not need all of the mentioned print sizes to complete your order. It is very important that you take care in choosing the correct images for the correct sizes. This will insure that you receive the correct images and the correct sizes. If you do not know which package you have purchased, please email albumorder@mjsphotostudio.com and we will send you your package information.

Ordering Additional Pictures

Many customers once they view their beautiful images decide to purchase additional prints as gifts for their bridal party or their parents.
